University of Illinois
at Urbana-Champaign

73 Stains Sweet Potatoes, Sustenance & Sustainability

Inspired by the work of George Washington Carver and his use of everyday materials, Seitu Ken Jones looks at food, sustainability and visual art at the intersection of self-care and the Beloved community. Jones will delve into artistic responses to the environment, specifically how African American artists continue to shape and sustain their well-being. We will have the opportunity to learn more about Jones's multidisciplinary practice and virtually visit his studio.

Registration is required for this Zoom event.
