

Gerald W.
Adelmann

*Executive Director, Openlands
Project of Illinois*

What's a Landscape For?

March 27, 2001
Tuesday 7:30 pm

Third Floor, Levis Faculty Center
919 West Illinois Street, Urbana
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Smart Growth and Liveability in the Twenty First Century

One of the great traumas of modern life is the loss of a sense of place. Gerald Adelmann draws on his internationally recognized work as a regional environmental and historic preservation planner in Illinois to articulate ways in which nature, art and history need to be woven back into the fabric of American metropolitan life in order for that life to be healthy and meaningful.

Sponsored by:
College of Fine and Applied Arts
Office of Continuing Education

In conjunction with:
Allerton Park and Conference Center
Environmental Council
Department of Economics
Department of Geography
Department of Human and Community Development

Department of Landscape Architecture
Department of Leisure Studies
Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Sciences
Department of Urban and Regional Planning
Division of Conferences and Institutes
Institute of Government and Public Affairs
School of Architecture
Illinois Natural History Survey
Illinois State Geological Survey
Grand Prairie Friends
Illinois Student Environmental Network
Prairie Rivers Network

Series support provided by:
Office of the Chancellor
Office of Equal Opportunity and Access
Office of the Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs
Office of the Vice Chancellor for Research
Office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs
The Center for Advanced Study
George A. Miller Endowment
George A. Miller Committee
Peggy Harris Memorial Fund
The Council of Deans
The Graduate College

This talk is held in conjunction with the Environmental Horizons 2001 Conference, March 26- 27.
For more information, contact the Environmental Council at 217-333-4178 or access www.envIRON.uiuc.edu.

For background information, please consult www.cas.uiuc.edu or the CAS Events Line, 333-1118.