The Impact of Race on Theatre and Culture

March 3, 2004
Wednesday 5:00 pm

Third Floor, Levis Faculty Center
919 West Illinois Street, Urbana
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Founder of the leading theatre for minority drama, Woodie King, Jr., has served the cause of social justice for 35 years.

Discussing the politics of art and historic intersections of race and theatre, such as Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun, King provides a powerful resource for those who want to know more about those who wish to be heard, but who have had to struggle just to speak.

Mr. King's visit coincides with the Department of Theatre production of A Raisin in the Sun, March 4–14, at the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts. For more information, please consult www.theatre.uiuc.edu.
