

MILLERCOMM93

Seizing the Infosphere: An Alternative Vision For National Computer Networking

Tom Grundner

*President, National Public Telecomputing Network
Cleveland, Ohio*

Sunday 7:30pm 1993

Lincoln Hall Theatre
702 South Wright Street, Urbana
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

4
APR

In a rapidly expanding information age, to whom do publicly funded national computer networks belong and how should they be used? The founder of the Free-Net movement will propose a community-based model that he believes will make global networks like the Internet and the National Research and Education Network more responsive to the needs of all citizens.

University Library
Graduate School of Library and Information Science
College of Education
Department of Speech Communication
Beckman Institute for Advanced Science and Technology
Computing and Communications Services Office
Institute of Government and Public Affairs
National Center for Supercomputing Applications
American Library Association, Student Chapter
American Society for Information Science, Student Chapter
Special Libraries Association, Student Chapter
Student Forum, Graduate School of Library and Information Science

Champaign Public Library
Lincoln Trail Libraries System
Parkland College Library
Prairienet
The Urbana Free Library
The Center for Advanced Study
George A. Miller Endowment
George A. Miller Committee