

MILLERCOMM89

At History's Dawn:

The Impact of European Culture on Native Americans in the Midwest

Historians and archæologists have long been fascinated by the period 1400-1700 in the midwest. Native American and European contact caused social reorganization that brought about cultural and demographic change. The symposium will present current archæological and historical research to examine this crucial period.

Friday 2:30pm 1988

Foellinger Auditorium
South End of the Quadrangle
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

14
OCT

Jeffrey P. Brain keynote

Curator of Southeast United States Archæology, Peabody Museum, Harvard University

Robert L. Hall

Department of Anthropology, University of Illinois at Chicago

C. Wesley Cowan

Curator of Archæology, Cincinnati Museum of Natural History

Charles Cleland

Curator in Great Lakes Archæology, Michigan State University

Thomas E. Emerson

Chief Archæologist, Illinois Historic Preservation Agency

Dale Henning

Professor, Luther College in Iowa

George Milner

Professor and Curator, Pennsylvania State University

James A. Brown

Department of Anthropology, Northwestern University

Courtesy of the Illinois State Historical Library

Department of Anthropology
Department of French
Department of Geography
Department of History
Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies
Program on Ancient Technologies and Archæological Materials

Museum of Natural History
World Heritage Museum
The University of Illinois Press
Illinois Humanities Council
George A. Miller Committee